About me:

My area of interest is the rehabilitation of habitats, the protection of living beings in the light of sustainable development. My environment considers me a creative person with good communication skills and outstanding problem-solving skills. During my studies, I mainly excelled in the identification of living creatures and habitats and in field tasks, but I am also ready to handle any design program that I learned during my university years. My goal is to use the knowledge I have acquired so far at an employer that will contribute to a more sustainable and environmentally friendly future.
